Catalogue creation

in your customised design

The megro medical products catalogue is used by a large number of our specialist trade customers for their own advertising. In particular, the customised design is increasingly used with a correspondingly high print run.

This makes it an ideal advertising medium with a positive response and market penetration.

Apprenticeship at megro

At megro, training young people is particularly important to us in order to give them the best possible start to their careers. We are proud of our excellent working atmosphere and place great importance on ensuring that our young talents match with us. We therefore select applicants not only on the basis of their academic performance, but above all on the basis of their personality. Enjoying working with people is just as important to us as treating each other with respect and fairness. Our training programmes include Wholesale and Foreign Trade Management Clerks and Warehouse Logistics Specialists (m/f/d).
